The Recover eCommunity

We successfully launched a new online community for those who are being impacted by addiction in the home, school, and workplace. Mobilizing resources is difficult during these financially challenging times so we designed a contemporary solution to accessing treatment and recovery services. Using technological platforms like videoconferencing/visual collaboration we are able to offer eCounseling as a supplemental, affordable and flexible alternative for those who cannot access traditional forms of counseling during the economic downturn. Plug in and get help in real time. Learn More

BCW White Papers

Rehumanize.

On March 16, 2009 we issued our response to a widely televised claim that an affluent rehab in Malibu has the cure to addiction and has published it in a book. We have experienced staggering support for our White Paper, "Is there a cure to addiction?" that can be downloaded at Beckman Consulting Worldwide. We do not endorse any marketing effort or any other business strategy that deters or dissuades those impacted by addiction from accessing comprehensive treatment and recovery services. Rather, we believe in sustaining and improving innovative approaches to critical care continua rather than dangling a carrot in front of desperate people and exploiting their hope for permanent relief from addiction. The disease of addiction has symptoms and is progressive, chronic, and fatal without treatment. Our commitment to social responsibility underscores our latest response to predatory marketing by those deceptively offering something just short of a miracle to American consumers. ### The Future Element

Our Youth Destiny Program has gathered enough momentum and support to begin the implementation phase of the project. We have coordinated local resources and reached into our communities for greater engagement in creating Addiction-Free Zones, which is a trademark service at Beckman Consulting Worldwide. We need so much more support to build-out our program and provide a safe place for our youth to send their unique messages to the world. Sponsors like Tammy Ross-Stern CPA, A Positive Change Sober Living, Angel Treatment & Recovery Communities, and Kelly Inga Financial Services have paved the way for others to support us in bringing a unique, up-to-date solution to our children so they can live healthy, addiction-free lives.
